

Garelochhead, Argyll and Bute

Population 2,277

Garelochhead in Argyll and Bute developed in the 1820s as a Clyde steamer port. In the 20th century the development of the deep sea port at Finnart and the Faslane military base have shaped the development of the settlement at Garelochhead.

Garelochhead is characterised by its military base. Employment is high and largely provided by the base. Levels of deprivation are low. As with other military towns, it is largely populated by young families. There are a higher number of women staying at home compared to other kinds of town and a high percentage of children under five years old.

Garelochhead is a dependent town.

It is in a group of its own according to USP analysis, which combines typology and assessment of inter-relationships.
